I, Heather Klimchuk, Minister of Culture, pursuant to Section 19(8) of the Historical Resources Act, HEREBY MAKE THE ORDER rescinding in its entirety the Ministerial Order dated September 3, 2003, and signed by the Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, then Minister of Alberta Community Development, designating the Van Haarlem Hospital as a Registered Historic Resource and registered in the Alberta Land Titles office as instrument 031 315 678, effective as of the date set out below.

Dated at Edmonton, Alberta, this 6th day of February, 2014.

Heather Klimchuk, Minister

Notice of Intent to Designate a Provincial Historic Resource

(Historical Resources Act)

File: Des. 2311

Notice is hereby given that sixty days from the date of service of this Notice and its publication in Alberta Gazette, the Minister of Culture intends to make an Order that the site known as the:

Barron Building, situated on land legally described as:

Plan A1
Block 48
Lots 21-28 Inclusive
Excepting Thereout All Mines and Minerals and municipally located in Calgary, Alberta be designated as a Provincial Historic Resource under section 20 of the Historical Resources Act, RSA 2000 cH-9.

The reasons for the designation are as follows: The Barron Building has heritage significance as an excellent example of early high rise architecture in Alberta and for its incorporation of both Moderne and early International styles. It is also significant for its role in solidifying Calgary as the de facto headquarters of Alberta's oil industry.

The Barron Building was built from 1949 to 1951 by Calgary lawyer, real estate developer and cinema house magnate Jacob Bell Barron. Originally, Barron intended to expand his network of cinemas by building an entertainment centre with a dance hall, bowling alley, restaurant and a luxurious cinema. However, following the discovery of oil at Leduc in February 1947, Barron foresaw a need for additional and more modern office space in Calgary, resulting in the planned entertainment centre becoming a large office building with a cinema.

Architect Jack Cawston, of the Calgary-based firm Cawston & Stevenson was commissioned to design the building. Cawston's design for the Barron Building appears to be a fusion of the established Art Deco and Moderne styles and the newer International style. The Moderne style grew from the Art Deco movement and emphasizes strength, order and efficiency, while exuding a sense of restrained luxuriousness and technological prowess. Over the 1920s and 1930s skyscrapers of this style had become iconic symbols of technologically progressive and prosperous cities. Likely seeking to borrow this imagery, Cawston integrated many Art Deco and Moderne elements into his design. These styles are evident throughout the building, particularly through its high degree of symmetry; its tapered appearance, caused by the stepped backed or terraced construction of the upper floors; and the polished black granite cladding at street level. The Art Deco and Moderne styles are most evident in the central tower through its stark, nearly monochromatic appearance; the use of Tyndall limestone on the second and third stories; and its strong vertical orientation, which is communicated by four vertical bands of windows and the tall, narrow, aluminum-clad pilasters. Other details of the central tower, such as the low relief carvings at the base, the curved, stylized aluminum panels at the top and the geometrical highlights adorning the elevator house, clearly solidify its Art Deco and Moderne pedigree.

The east and west wings of the Barron Building are more in line with the International style, which had become popular in the post-war period. This style emphasized economy and function through extreme simplicity and rigid adherence to vertical and horizontal lines. These elements of the style are strongly evident in the Barron Building's east and west wings, which are characterised by the lack of ornamentation and the horizontal banding of alternating buff-coloured brick and ribbon windows. The International style reached the height of its popularity in the decades between the 1960s and 1980s and became a symbol of corporate power. The downtown core of many Canadian cities, particularly Calgary and Edmonton, still demonstrate the influence of the style. The Barron Building's fusion of the older, iconic Art Deco and Moderne styles with the more contemporary International style is an interesting combination and likely communicates the desire of both the developer and architect to promote the economic strength, stability and rising importance of both the Barron Building and the city of Calgary.

Barron's original desire was to build a new cinema to expand his network of movie houses in Calgary. Although the project was transformed from being an entertainment centre into an office building, a cinema was an integral part of the building. This is demonstrated today by the marquee as a structural extension of the concrete floor plate over the adjacent sidewalk. As Barron had foreseen, office space was desperately needed by the burgeoning oil industry in Alberta. By the early 1950s, the office space within the building was quickly leased by a number of companies related to the oil sector, notably Haliburton, Sun Oil, Mobil, Shell and Trans-Canada Pipelines. The success of the Barron Building in drawing these companies to Calgary inspired the construction of more and larger office buildings, confirming the city's position as the epicentre of Alberta's oil sector.

It is therefore considered that the preservation and protection of the resource is in the public interest.

Dated this 11th day of March, A.D. 2014.

ALBERTA SECURITIES COMMISSION RULE 45-513 PROSPECTUS EXEMPTION FOR DISTRIBUTION TO EXISTING SECURITY HOLDERS

(Securities Act)

Made as a rule by the Alberta Securities Commission on March 12, 2014 pursuant to sections 223 and 224 of the Securities Act.

Definitions

1. Terms defined in National Instrument 14-101 Definitions have the same meaning in this Rule.

2. In this Rule

“announcement date” is the day that an issuer issues an offering news release;

“investment dealer” has the same meaning as in section 1.1 of National Instrument 31-103 Registration Requirements, Exemptions and Ongoing Registrant Obligations;

“listed security” means a security of an issuer of a class of equity security listed on the TSX Venture Exchange, the Toronto Stock Exchange, or the Canadian Securities Exchange;

“offering material” means a document purporting to describe the business and affairs of an issuer that has been prepared primarily for delivery to and review by a prospective purchaser so as to assist the prospective purchaser to make an investment decision in respect of securities being sold in a distribution under this Instrument;

“offering news release” means a news release issued by an issuer announcing its intention to conduct a distribution under section 3 of this Instrument;

“record date” is the date that is at least one day prior to the announcement date;

“warrant” means a purchase warrant issued by an issuer that entitles the holder to acquire a listed security or a fraction of a listed security of the same issuer.

Exemption For Sales to Existing Security Holders

3. The prospectus requirement does not apply to a distribution by an issuer of a security of its own issue to a security holder of the issuer purchasing as principal if all of the following applies:
- (a) the issuer is a reporting issuer in at least one jurisdiction of Canada with a class of equity securities listed on the TSX Venture Exchange, the Toronto Stock Exchange, or the Canadian Securities Exchange;
 - (b) the issuer has filed in each jurisdiction of Canada in which it is a reporting issuer all periodic and timely disclosure documents that it is required to have filed in that jurisdiction as required by all of the following:
 - (i) applicable securities legislation;
 - (ii) an order issued by the regulator or securities regulatory authority;
 - (iii) an undertaking to the regulator or securities regulatory authority;

- (c) the issuer has issued and filed an offering news release describing in reasonable detail the proposed distribution, including, without limitation,
 - (i) the minimum and maximum number of securities proposed to be distributed under this section and the minimum and maximum aggregate gross proceeds of the distribution,
 - (ii) the proposed principal uses, including estimated dollar amounts, of the gross proceeds of the distribution, assuming both the minimum and maximum offering, and
 - (iii) a description of how the issuer intends to allocate securities if aggregate subscriptions for securities under the proposed distribution exceed the maximum number of securities proposed to be distributed;
 - (d) subject to applicable securities laws, the issuer permits each person or company who, as of the record date, held a listed security of the issuer of the same class and series as the listed security to be distributed under this exemption to subscribe for securities in the distribution;
 - (e) the purchaser has represented in writing to the issuer that, on or before the record date the purchaser acquired and continues to hold, a listed security of the issuer of the same class and series as the listed security to be distributed under this section;
 - (f) neither the issuer nor any salesperson acting on behalf of the issuer in connection with the distribution under this section has any reason to reasonably believe that the purchaser's representation, referred to in paragraph (e), is untrue;
 - (g) unless the purchaser has obtained advice regarding the suitability of the investment and, if the person is resident in a jurisdiction of Canada that advice is from a person or company registered in the jurisdiction as an investment dealer, the aggregate acquisition cost to the purchaser for the securities purchased under this section, when combined with the acquisition cost to the purchaser of all other securities of the issuer distributed under this section in the last 12 months, does not exceed $15,000.
4. The issuer must represent all of the following to the purchaser in the subscription agreement:
- (a) the issuer's "core documents" and "documents", as those terms are defined in Part 17.01 of the Act, do not contain a misrepresentation;

- (b) there is no material fact or material change related to the issuer which has not been generally disclosed.

Removal of Exemption

- 5. The exemption in section 3 is not available for the distribution of a security other than a listed security or a unit comprised of a listed security and a warrant.
- 6. The exemption in section 3 is not available for the distribution of a listed security if the class of listed security has been suspended from trading for failure to comply with the ongoing requirements of the applicable exchange.

Offering Material

- 7. Other than the subscription agreement, any offering material provided to a purchaser in connection with a distribution under section 3, must be filed with the securities regulator no later than the day that the offering material was first provided to a purchaser.

Resale Restrictions

- 8. The first trade of a security acquired under section 3 is subject to section 2.5 of National Instrument 45-102 Resale of Securities.

Report of Exempt Distribution

- 9. On or before the 10th day after a distribution under section 3, the issuer must file a report of the distribution that complies with Form 45-106F1 Report of Exempt Distribution.

Application of Statutory Secondary Market Civil Liability Provisions to this Rule

- 10. Part 17.01 of the Act applies to a security distributed under section 3.
- 11. This Rule comes into force on March 13, 2014.
