Notice of Intention to Designate a Provincial Historic Resource

(Historical Resources Act)

File: Des. 0639

Notice is hereby given that sixty days from the date of service of this Notice and its publication in the Alberta Gazette, the Minister of Culture and Tourism intends to make an Order that the site known as the:

St. Boniface Roman Catholic Church and Rectory, together with the land legally described as:

All that portion of the south west quarter of Section Twenty Five (25)
Township Eighty One (81)

Subdivision Plan 59HW and north of Road Plan 2347RS containing 6.27 hectares (15.5 acres) more or less.
Excepting Thereout All Mines and Minerals and municipally located in the Municipal District of Fairview, Alberta be designated as a Provincial Historic Resource under Section 20 of the Historical Resources Act, RSA 2000 cH-9.

The reasons for the designation are as follows: The heritage value of the St. Boniface Roman Catholic Church and Rectory at Friedenstal lies in its significance as an excellent example of a Roman Catholic cultural landscape and for its ecclesiastical architecture.

The community of Friedenstal was established by German Roman Catholics in the 1910s. The community's religious needs were provided by German-speaking priests of the Missionary Oblates of Mary Immaculate, a French Roman Catholic order, who founded the St. Boniface parish. The St. Boniface site was once much larger and included a school and a convent. However, the arrangement of the remaining structures represents an ecclesiastical landscape, one that was intentionally designed to convey a sense of the overarching supremacy of the Roman Catholic Church in the area. The church, opulent in design if not in materials, dominates the site and is visible from a great distance on the relatively flat landscape. An important, but clearly subordinate two-storey, stucco-clad rectory and an associated garage are located slightly to the south and a small wooden shrine, stylistically similar to the church, can be found in the trees to the north. The entire site is framed and protected by substantial groves of mature trees. Although each structure is of differing scales and levels of ornamentation, together, these elements, including an associated cemetery to the east, comprise a compact and cohesive Roman Catholic cultural landscape and represent the remaining structures of what was once a large religious community in northwestern Alberta.

Built, and possibly designed by Oblate Brother Joseph Eiseman in 1920-21, St. Boniface is a typical Roman Catholic church, consisting of a rectangular building on an east-west axis with a front facing gable roof. A number of design and architectural elements speak to its French-Canadian Roman Catholic style, notably the pattern of Roman-arched windows and the arrangement of the front elevation; its central tower with open belfry, spire and cross; and the small, pyramid-topped pinnacles at the corners. The church is similar to other Oblate-built churches, notably St. Joachim in Edmonton and St. Jean-Baptiste in Morinville, although its simpler scale and use of less refined construction materials, reflects its rural and northern location. Despite its simplicity, the church offers distinctive, Classical-inspired ornamentation, typical of Roman Catholic churches, such as fanlight windows, finials, simulated modillions and dentils, trefoil tracery and a small, bell cote-like feature at the rear gable peak.

The interior of the church is also arranged in traditional Roman Catholic style, with the altar to the east and the gallery, confessional and narthex to the west. The barrel-vaulted central portion of the ceiling and the rows of columns give the impression of aisles. The church does not have an apse, but the chancel is clearly defined by the arrangement of the east walls and the presence of steps and altar rails. Focus rests on the altar, which is painted white with gold highlights and surmounted by a large crucifix in a fanlight pattern. Other ornamentation is generally restrained while still retaining a sense of opulence common in Roman Catholic churches, notable is the ornate gold chandelier with chains and crosses hanging over the centre of the nave.

The rectory is a simple, two-storey, wood-frame residence in the American Foursquare style, with an enclosed front porch and kitchen at the rear. Distinctly more modest in design and ornamentation than the church, the rectory does feature a high level of workmanship, fitting for a structure intended to provide a basic, but comfortable home for the parish priests. An associated garage is located a short distance to the south. This utilitarian building is significant as it housed the priest's automobile, a necessary convenience allowing priests to visit parishioners in this rural and dispersed parish.

It is therefore considered that the preservation and protection of the resource is in the public interest.

Any person who wishes to make a representation regarding the proposed designation may do so by submitting a written request to Matthew Wangler, Executive Director, Alberta Historical Resources Foundation, 8820 – 112th Street, Edmonton, Alberta, T6G 2P8. Any such request must be made within 30 days of the publication of this notice. At the end of the 30 day period, the Foundation will fix a date for the hearing of representations and will notify all those who have advised of their intention to make representations. On the date fixed, the Foundation will hear representations from all parties who have expressed an interest in doing so.

Dated this 3rd day of November, A.D. 2015.

Notice is hereby given that no less than sixty days from the date of service of this Notice and its publication in the Alberta Gazette, the Minister of Culture and Tourism intends to make an Order that the site known as the:

Tipton Investment Company Building, together with the land legally described as:

Plan I
Block 67
Lot 31

and municipally located in the City of Edmonton, Alberta be designated as a Provincial Historic Resource under Section 20 of the Historical Resources Act, RSA 2000 cH-9.

The reasons for the designation are as follows: The Tipton Investment Company Building possesses heritage value as a contributing resource to the Old Strathcona Provincial Historic Area, one of Alberta's premier heritage districts. The building also has value for its association with John Gaddis Tipton, a prominent Strathcona businessman and politician, and as an increasingly rare example of the modest, wood-frame structures that were dominant in the commercial cores of Alberta's early settlement communities.

Between 1899 and 1912, Strathcona experienced dramatic growth. During this period, the town attracted a range of professionals and business people. Among those to establish themselves in Strathcona at the time was John Gaddis Tipton, an American who arrived in Alberta in the 1890s and made a name for himself as a successful lawyer, businessman, and civic politician. Tipton was the founder and president of Tipton and Sons Investment Company, which offered insurance and real estate services in the community. He was also involved in civic affairs and served as an alderman in Strathcona between 1908 and 1911. Tipton's business and political successes were vital to the community's development. In 1912, his company acquired the Tipton Block, a stately, three-storey brick building located on the south side of Whyte Avenue, one block east of the Tipton Investment Company Building. In the same year, Strathcona amalgamated with the City of Edmonton, a major triumph for politicians like Tipton who had lobbied for the merger.

It is uncertain where Tipton's business interests were initially accommodated, but it is clear that by 1911, his operations were based in the structure known as the Tipton Investment Company Building, a single-storey, wood-frame building constructed circa 1902. This modest office space was typical of the structures built by most of the enterprises established in Strathcona prior to 1902. These buildings were single-storey, wood-frame buildings with boomtown false fronts. Architectural elements like large display windows, recessed entries, pressed metal exteriors, and ornamented cornices imparted visual interest and an air of elegance to these otherwise simple structures. The interiors were typically open, utilitarian, and easily adaptable to the demands of owners or tenants. Boomtown structures like these were common not only in early Strathcona, but in the commercial cores of early settlement communities across Alberta. Commercial architecture in Strathcona changed dramatically in 1902, when the town passed a civic improvement and fire-prevention bylaw prohibiting the construction of new wood-frame commercial structures. In the years that followed, brick and stone became the building materials of choice. Today, the Tipton Investment Company Building and the Chapman Brothers Building across the street are the only structures that retain the simple, wood-frame storefronts that once characterized historic Whyte Avenue.

It is therefore considered that the preservation and protection of the resource is in the public interest.

Any person who wishes to make a representation regarding the proposed designation may do so by submitting a written request to Matthew Wangler, Executive Director, Alberta Historical Resources Foundation, 8820 – 112th Street, Edmonton, Alberta, T6G 2P8. Any such request must be made within 30 days of the publication of this notice. At the end of the 30 day period, the Foundation will fix a date for the hearing of representations and will notify all those who have advised of their intention to make representations. On the date fixed, the Foundation will hear representations from all parties who have expressed an interest in doing so.

Dated this 17th day of November, A.D. 2015.
