Culture and Tourism

Notice of Intention to Designate a Provincial Historic Resource

(Historical Resources Act)

File: Des. 1271

Notice is hereby given that no less than sixty days from the date of service of this Notice and its publication in the Alberta Gazette, the Minister of Culture and Tourism intends to make an Order that the site known as the:

Bow On Tong Co. Building, together with the land legally described as:

Plan 4353S

Block 19

Lots 8 and 9

Excepting thereout all mines and minerals

and municipally located in Lethbridge, Alberta

be designated as a Provincial Historic Resource under Section 20 of the Historical Resources Act, RSA 2000 cH-9.

The reasons for the designation are as follows: The heritage value of the Bow On Tong Co. Building rests in its reflection of Chinese immigration and settlement in early twentieth-century southern Alberta. It is further significant through its association with the historic role played by the merchant class in Chinese-Albertan communities. Finally, the building is significant for its reflection of early twentieth-century Chinese-Albertan domestic life through its long association with the Leong family.

Built in 1919, the Bow On Tong Co. Building is significant for its association with Chinese immigration and settlement in early twentieth-century southern Alberta. The building originally opened as the Tai Sing Co. store and from the outset it doubled as a lodging house for newly-arrived Chinese immigrants, illustrating the significant role played by merchants who provided accommodation in Chinese-Albertan communities. The Bow On Tong Co. Building is one of several historic Chinese structures located on the south side of Second Avenue South, and the building's original spatial context is strongly conveyed by the exceptional historical integrity of the overall streetscape. The structure's historic use as a store is manifest in its form and massing – typical of early twentieth-century commercial blocks in Lethbridge – as well as its prominent signage, wooden storefront, large display and clerestory windows, and original wooden cabinets with Chinese lettering lining the south and west walls (in continuous use since the late 1920s). As a highly intact example of a Chinese commercial building, the Bow On Tong Co. store strongly reflects the history of Chinese-Albertan urban settlement and contributes greatly to the overall integrity of one of the province's oldest distinct Chinese neighbourhoods.

The Bow On Tong Co. Building is additionally significant for its association with the historic roles of the Chinese merchant class in Alberta as exemplified by Way Leong, who purchased the building in 1926. Merchants occupied a prominent place in the social structure of Chinese-Albertan communities. In addition to their economic role as entrepreneurs, merchants exercised considerable influence as associational leaders, community spokesmen and cultural brokers. Way Leong is strongly representative of this social class and as a result, the Bow On Tong Co. Building reflects the personal and professional activities that characterized this unique and important group. First and foremost, the Bow On Tong Co. store was a substantial and enduring commercial enterprise that operated continuously as an apothecary and Chinese goods importer under the ownership of the Leong family for over ninety years. It was the commercial anchor of Lethbridge's Chinatown and stands as an important reminder of the larger contribution of Chinese merchants to Alberta's economic growth and development. The building was also an important site of associational activity, hosting meetings of the Leong clan association (of which Way Leong was a leading organizer) from 1929 through 1967. Such associations were essential features of Chinese settlement throughout Alberta and were also an important means through which prominent merchants could exercise leadership and influence within their communities. The building was a site of sustained commercial, associational and social use that reflects the historic presence and contributions of the merchant class in Chinese-Albertan communities.

Finally, the building draws additional significance as a domestic space long associated with the daily lives of the Leong family – Way, his wife Florence who immigrated to Canada from Hong Kong in 1919, and their thirteen children. The structural racism faced by Chinese immigrants most notably the $500 Head Tax (1903) and the full exclusion of Chinese immigrants from Canada in 1923, created particular conditions that made family formation very rare in Chinese-Albertan communities. The small number of Chinese families that did settle in Alberta in this period were overwhelmingly drawn from the merchant class, who represented only a small proportion of the overall Chinese population but were exempt from the Head Tax and could thus afford to bring their wives over from Canada. Available evidence suggests that there were as few as sixteen Chinese merchant families in Alberta after the passage of the Chinese Immigration Act in 1923 – as such, Florence and Way Leong were joining an extremely small social group when they arrived in Lethbridge in 1926. Merchant families played an essential role sustaining Chinese-Albertan communities during the Exclusion Era (1923-47), when new immigration was banned and population growth came only from natural increase and migration from other provinces. As such, Florence’s presence allowed her to play an important role helping to operate the Bow On Tong Co. store, and her decades-long association with the building reflects the important and often overlooked contributions of women to the success of Chinese-Albertan businesses. The Leong family’s long association with the building reflects an important social dimension of Chinese history in Alberta – the presence of merchant families, and the emergence of an Albertan-born Chinese settlement population.

Any person who wishes to make a representation regarding the proposed designation may do so by submitting a written request to Matthew Wangler, Executive Director, Alberta Historical Resources Foundation, 8820 – 112th Street, Edmonton, Alberta, T6G 2P8. Any such request must be made within 30 days of the publication of this notice. At the end of the 30 day period, the Foundation will fix a date for the hearing of representations and will notify all those who have advised of their intention to make representations. Notice of Intention to Designate a Provincial Historic Resource
(Historical Resources Act)

File: Des. 1272

Notice is hereby given that no less than sixty days from the date of service of this Notice and its publication in the Alberta Gazette, the Minister of Culture and Tourism intends to make an Order that the site known as the:

Wing Wah Chong Co. Building together with the land legally described as:

Plan 4353S
Block 19
Lots 8 and 9
Excepting thereout all mines and minerals

and municipally located in Lethbridge, Alberta

be designated as a Provincial Historic Resource under Section 20 of the Historical Resources Act, RSA 2000 cH-9.

The reasons for the designation are as follows: The Wing Wah Chong Co. Building is significant as a rare and excellent example of an early twentieth-century Chinese commercial building. It is additionally significant due to its association with one of Alberta's oldest Chinatowns.

Built in 1908, the Wing Wah Chong Co. Building is highly significant as a rare example of a pre-World War One Chinese-owned commercial building. Its high level of integrity strongly communicates the structure's multiple uses, as well as the central importance of such buildings in Chinese-Albertan communities. In its early years, the building was occupied by a pair of Chinese goods retailers, the Wing Wah Chong Co. (1908-18) and the Kwong On Lung Co. (1919-24). This original use is conveyed by the building's form and massing – typical of pre-World War One commercial blocks in Lethbridge – as well as its proximity to other historically Chinese-owned businesses along Second Avenue South. The basement yields evidence of the building's residential use, with remnants of sleeping cubicles used by Chinese immigrants. Chinese merchants commonly rented space out to lodgers in the early 1900s, and the cubicles vividly convey the cramped living conditions endured by working-class Chinese immigrants. More broadly, the cubicles illustrate the crucial importance of commercial buildings in Chinese-Albertan communities – merchants were often the first point of contact for newly-arrived Chinese immigrants, and providing accommodation space was one of the ways that merchants maximized their revenue and helped new arrivals adjust to life in Alberta. From 1917 until the late 1960s, the top floor was home to a succession of restaurants, including the Pekin Café, Canton Chop Suey, and New China Chop Suey. Restaurants were among the most common businesses established by Chinese entrepreneurs, and the Wing Wah Chong Co. Building's use as a restaurant is echoed by Chinese ghost signage on the pediment that translates to 'New China Restaurant.' In short, the building's exceptional heritage value is manifest in its ability to communicate multiple and distinct uses – restaurant, retail space, living quarters – which in turn echo the socio-economic structure of Chinese-Albertan communities. The commercial elements reflect the entrepreneurship of Chinese merchants; the cubicles strongly illustrate the austere living conditions of working-class immigrants; and the building's dual business and residential functions collectively demonstrate the central importance of commercial structures in early Chinese-Albertan communities.

The building has additional heritage value due to its association with one of Alberta's earliest Chinatowns – distinct clusters of Chinese settlement, commerce and cultural activity that were found in the province's major urban centres. In their earliest stage of development, these Chinatowns tended to emerge along a single street and were anchored by businesses such as laundries, restaurants and retail stores that attracted a predominantly Chinese clientele and became magnets for further settlement. The Wing Wah Chong Co. Building reflects this process – it was one of the first commercial structures built along Second Avenue South, and remains an important element of a streetscape that strongly conveys a distinct historical Chinese neighbourhood. This nascent Chinatown emerged near a gulch on what was the western edge of Lethbridge in the early 1900s, away from the downtown core. This location reflects the racism and discrimination faced by Chinese in Lethbridge in the early 1900s, in particular the general unwillingness of Euro-Canadian landlords to rent commercial space to Chinese merchants in downtown Lethbridge and mob violence against Chinese residents and businesses in 1907, which further discouraged Chinese merchants from locating in the city's commercial core. This concentration of Chinese settlement was reinforced by a discriminatory bylaw in 1911 that confined Chinese-owned laundries to a 'restricted area' on the western edge of town.

While these factors are specific to Lethbridge, they echo a general pattern of racist hostility and discriminatory regulation in other Albertan cities that ensured Chinatowns would emerge in isolated areas where there was little development pressure. In addition, the Second Avenue South streetscape is one of the last in Alberta that reflects the emergence of a pre-World War One Chinatown in its original location – other Albertan Chinatowns have either moved or lost the integrity necessary to communicate a distinct historical Chinese neighbourhood. The heritage value of the Wing Wah Chong Co. Building is thus greatly enhanced by its spatial relationship with other historically Chinese-owned buildings along Second Avenue South, its siting away from the downtown core, and its status as a constituent element of one of the last remaining streetscapes that reflects the earliest years of Chinese settlement in Alberta.

Any person who wishes to make a representation regarding the proposed designation may do so by submitting a written request to Matthew Wangler, Executive Director, Alberta Historical Resources Foundation, 8820 – 112th Street, Edmonton, Alberta, T6G 2P8. Notice of Intention to Designate a Provincial Historic Resource
(Historical Resources Act)

Notice is hereby given that no less than sixty days from the date of service of this Notice and its publication in the Alberta Gazette, the Minister of Culture and Tourism intends to make an Order that the site known as the:

Richards Block, together with the land legally described as:

Plan I
Block 67
Lot 32

and municipally located in Edmonton, Alberta

be designated as a Provincial Historic Resource under Section 20 of the Historical Resources Act, RSA 2000 cH-9.

The reasons for the designation are as follows: The Richards Block is provincially significant as an outstanding example of Edwardian commercial architecture and for its association with the economic, social and cultural development of Strathcona in the early twentieth century.

The Richards Block was built in 1909-10 by A.H. Richards Co., one of Strathcona's oldest commercial firms. It was one of many three-storey brick commercial blocks constructed along Whyte Avenue between 1910 and 1914, reflecting a trend common across Alberta's urban centres during the early twentieth century economic boom. The scale, design, and materials illustrate the decisive shift away from wood-frame 'boomtown'-style merchant buildings to more substantial commercial blocks that strongly communicated a sense of permanence and optimism in Strathcona's (and Alberta's) future. The building was also a statement of the owner's wealth and prominent status within the community, reflected in such classically-inspired ornamental features as the roofline bracketed cornice, corbelled parapet and brick pilasters.

The building functioned as both a commercial and social centre. The main floor was a commercial space for Richards' general store and other businesses, while the upper floors contained a dance hall and meeting space for fraternal organizations such as the Freemasons and the Odd Fellows. These activities, in particular the association with fraternal activity, speak to the important role that the Richards Block played in the growth and development of economic, social and cultural activity in early twentieth-century Strathcona.

Any person who wishes to make a representation regarding the proposed designation may do so by submitting a written request to Matthew Wangler, Executive Director, Alberta Historical Resources Foundation, 8820 – 112th Street, Edmonton, Alberta, T6G 2P8. Any such request must be made within 30 days of the publication of this notice. (2) If any candidate receives a majority of five or more votes from settlement councils, the candidate is deemed to be elected to the position.

(3) Subject to subsection (5), if no candidate receives a least five (5) votes, then the name of any candidate having fewer votes than all others must be removed from the ballot and another vote held.

(4) The names of candidates removed from the ballot under subsection (3) may not be added to any subsequent ballot in that election.

(5) The names of candidates shall not be removed from a ballot for having the fewest votes if that removal would leave only the name of one candidate remaining on the ballot.

(6) In the event that no candidate receives a majority vote after three consecutive votes, the General Council may resolve by ordinary resolution to amend the voting procedure and resolve the deadlock by utilizing subsections 6(a) and 6(b) if necessary, or go directly to 6(b):

 - (ii) If the candidates receive the same number of members' votes, another members' vote is held;
 - (iii) If the candidates receive the same number of members' votes on three consecutive members' votes, then the method provided for in subsection (b) must be used to determine which one is deemed to be elected;
- (b) Luck of the draw – Subject to the operation of subsection (a), the returning officer shall write the names of the candidates separately on blank sheets of paper of equal size and of same colour and texture, and after folding the sheets of paper in a uniform manner and so that the names are concealed, shall deposit them in a receptacle and direct some person to withdraw one of the sheets and the Returning Officer shall declare the candidate whose name is drawn deemed to be elected; or

- (c) In all free votes conducted under (a), affected candidates who are settlement councillors cannot vote and shall not receive a ballot.

Part 5
